The mysterious technique I have been to 'scream'! To learn? Or simply, I have been waiting for the right-master, opportunity?

For some reason my heart is set on Asakusa, even tho I prefer the beautiful Nagasaki! What are the reasons why I haven't been deeper?

1- It took me a long time to learn how to use the 'machine', I am now addicted to the lines!!!

2- I do love the flow of the machine, circular motion, circles, whip, that is not possible with Tebori

It seems the Colours are shinier by hand. Even tho, I only had a little scar, only on the arm, I do not remember any pain. And if it's the right area. The Colours are outstanding.

The rhythm and the ritual might be much deeper too and allow for deeper introspection due to the silence.

Shakeri, Chakeri...

The truth is that I do not feel complete as a craftsman without at least learning the technique

There is also that deeper aspect of the Wabashi culture...

Part of me wishes to leave it behind. Yet I have spent almost 20 years in that field. It transformed my life for the better.

See how tattoo transformed my life.

I do not feel so concerned about 'time' anymore.

My perception of perfection has changed...

Following the way of the Mokum, I wish to go much deeper!
