

Cultivate.

last few days have been exhausting, mental processes - at the day end - Buddhism - academy - A.I.

Mental exhaustion,

do not look for the mind outside the mind...

The right teaching is the one that works now.

the seeking mind is not a moral feeling but a structural one - it points a gap between the seeker and what is sought, then depends itself maintaining the very gap it intends to close.

Dale S. Wright, 1998

Today is a rest day with Yoko.

two immigrants from Train station to Yoko's office

Chung. by Anne Plaza in the middle of the cross road, as if time stopped. in the middle of the flashing lights & the beeping signal.

(Has someone else's died?)

He had a beautiful energy that reminded me of the Shambhavi Mudra. Presence is energy, beyond words.

→ establish and maintain the routine practice

energy / mind, as simple energy.

Try to explain in your entire notes;
this is true, it is not religious,
and applies to daily life -

Vaushy given a word.

the quality of the teaching,
the man's presence.

the presence in the object.

the feeling of the object.

Ecology, place of mind, etc.

when I left home, all I wanted in my bag was - the Shambhavi folo, my notes, and, time to relax with Yoko.

As I thought yesterday, it is time to simply sit and breathe, sitting, relax with the breath with no expectation. it is important to keep the practice simple enough and significant.
what it is point, if it does not bring us closer to harmony

→ reminder when leaving the S.

Have enough "understanding" not to judge another's karma -

Have enough compassion to be welcome and kind.
